I have to say I loved this book! I was glued to it from the first page as it has an intriguing opening. The book tells the story of an extremely difficult time in Felicity Costello's (aka Flick) life. She's your everyday 16-year-old until things start getting out of hand because of one big secret. You feel a connection to the characters because you can really relate. I think the author's perception of teenage life today was very well written. It's a great first novel for Geraldine Meade, I look forward to reading more of her books in the future.

I found this book to be quite shocking, but in a good way. It really brings to life the tough times some girls have to go through. It made me think about people differently.

Some of the dialogue was a bit jarring but overall I really liked this book. I thought the characters were very real, especially Flick's mates.

I like how this could have been set anywhere in Ireland. It's universal yet Irish, and that's what makes it so unique.
